Private Loan Disclosure Statement

Private loans offered through lending institutions and are not part of federal government programs. Although private loans can assist you in paying your balance due, private lenders set their own rules and regulations. In addition, interest rates may be variable, and could be higher than the interest on the federal direct loans. Since some private loans have additional fees, private loans may cost more than loans offered through the federal government. Private educational loans should be taken as a last resort after all federal loans have been exhausted.

By signing this form, I acknowledge that Financial Aid has advised me of the financing options available to me. I wish to proceed with my private loan, even though I understand that the federal loan programs for which I may be eligible may be more beneficial than the private loan.
